INDIVIDUALITY

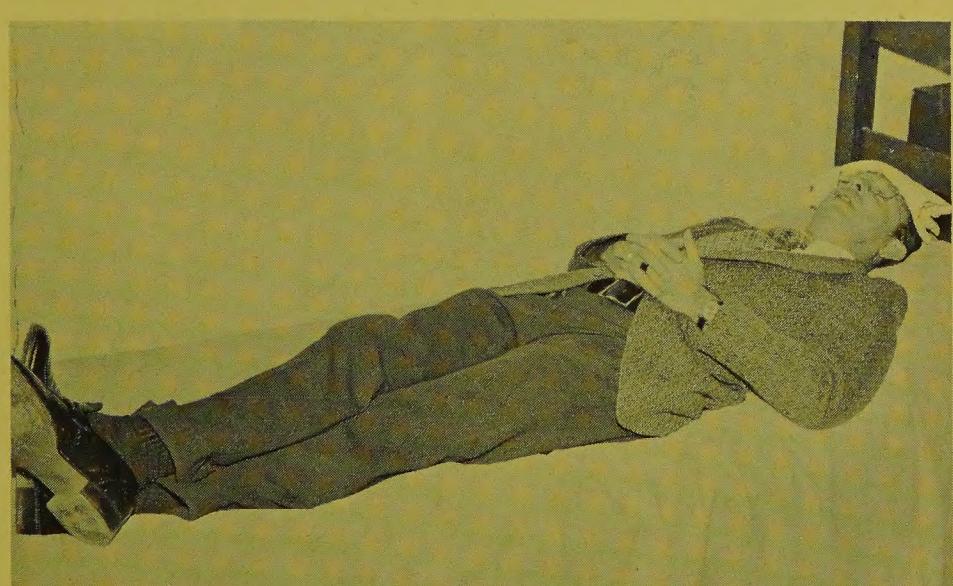

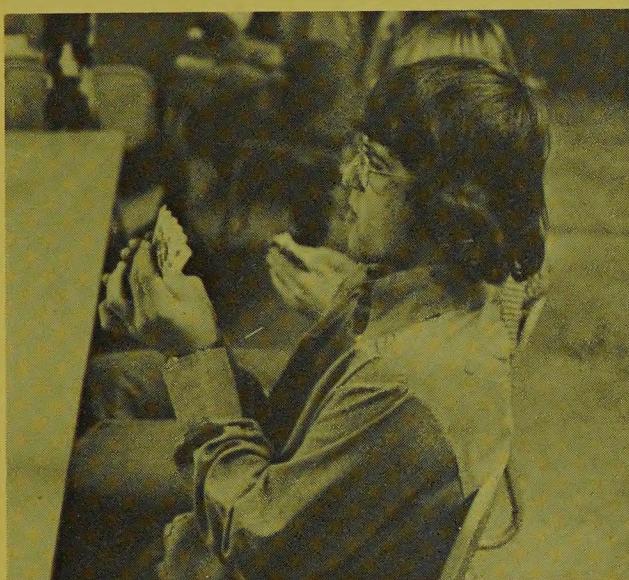

From a tangled web of humanity
Where lives overlap and intermingle.

The individual cries out:
"I love spring mornings!"
"I'm so enthusiastic about school
I fall asleep!"
"I opened the door to my own self discovery."

Thinking

Each being
With his own life to live Spends much of his time in contemplation.
“They will never beat me while I’ve got this hand.”
“I feel dumb in this get-up.”
“I wonder if he notices I’m here?”
“She’s get to be kidding!”

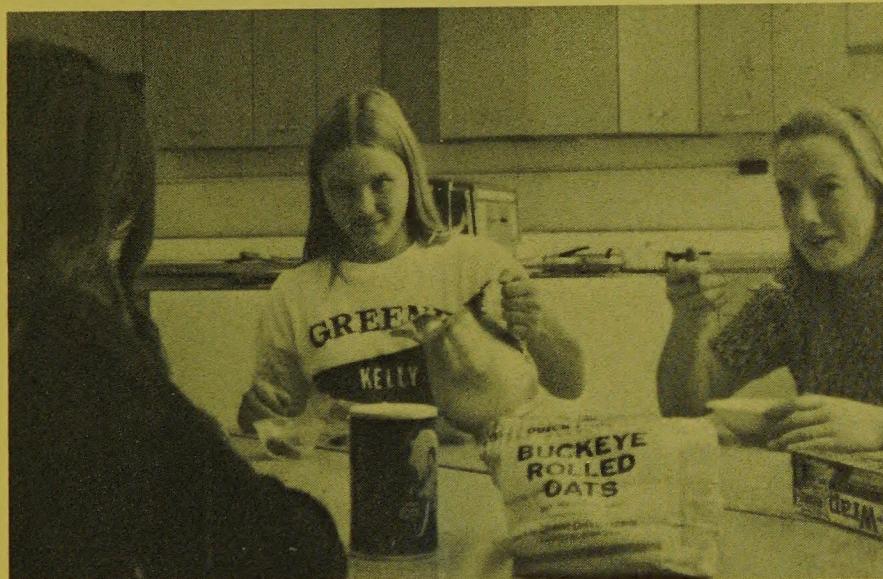

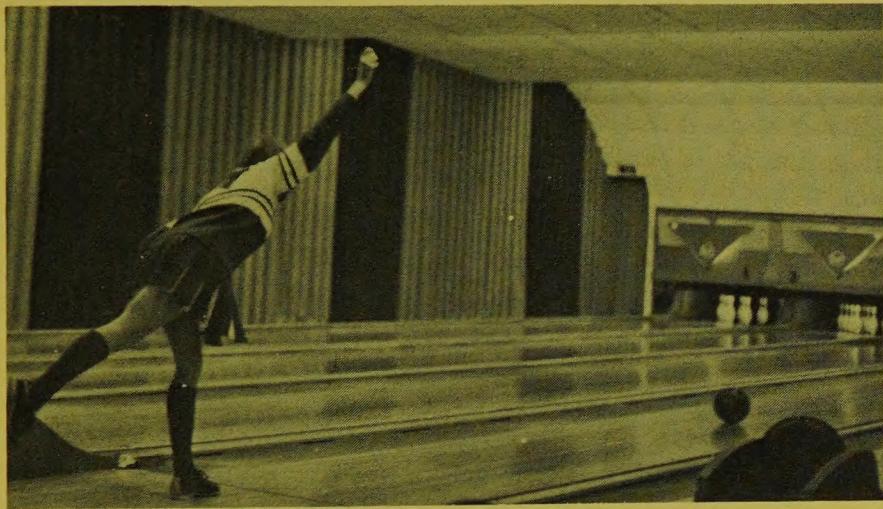

Expressing

With thoughts of his own
The individual has something to say
He explains how he feels
Through dancing and sports.
"We feel dancing is the best way to express ourselves."
"If I've told you once—I've told you a hundred times, do that play my way!"

Executing

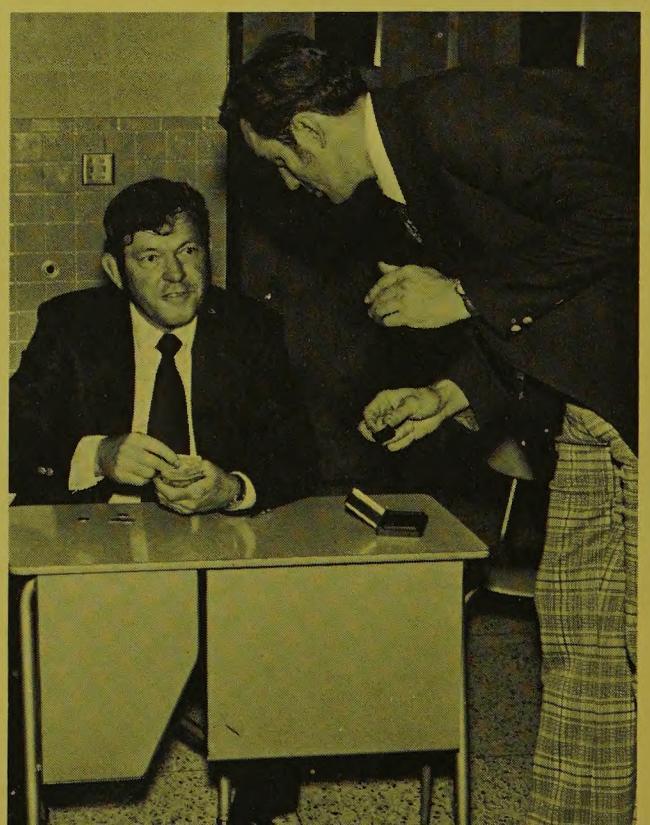

It takes the mind and body of one single person
To meet the challenges of performing.
“I’ve won the race. I really could beat the others.”
“I feel like I’m going to faint, but I’ve got to finish the routine.”
“Sing, sing sing, you’ve got to put your whole self into it.”
“You have got to use the correct form, remember...
1,2,3, sssslide.”
“If I can keep my eye from fluttering, I’ll do fine.”

Enjoying

Though everyone is a unique individual we share our identities with the people around us.
"3:15 is enjoyed by everyone."
"That sucker was so good, I thought I'd try the stick."
"Even the older generation enjoys a good rock band."
"How can I concentrate on history of the past when all that matters is tonight?"
"Even teaching has its light moments."

Relaxing

At times mind and body grow tired,
Muscles and nerves take a break,
With the help of friendly conversation, a chair, and a Coke.
“Sometimes you can study so much better on the floor than in a cramped desk.”
“The student center serves the students as a place to unwind.”
“Many times seclusion is what one needs most.”

As Usual, Students Conform To Latest Fads

A common sight in school this year is faded "Levi's" held together by patches.

The legs around Greene are more colorful this year with the plaid, striped, and multi-colored toed socks walking around.

"The problem used to be finding socks to match your dress. Now the problem is solved by not wearing dresses."

"It's a necessity for the sophomore girls to wear platform shoes or otherwise the senior boys will never see them."

"I still can't figure out what happened to tight jeans complete with loafers and no socks. It sure saved money not wearing socks—quite cold in the winter though."

"Hair has grown shorter on the heads around G.H.S. but has gotten longer on the faces of male faculty and students alike."

"What happened to the good old days of short skirts? School just isn't as interesting ever since girls threw away dresses for sweat shirts and blue jeans."

Shoes are as different as the people who wear them. Whether you wear platforms, snake-skin cowboy boots, or waffle stompers, you're right in style.

Pam Reigns Over Homecoming Festivities

"Reaching the climax of cherished experience, Pam Larson shared her elation with surprise."

"Riding in a golf cart proved to be quite an experience. The real trick was trying to keep from bouncing out of our seats as our trusty drivers attempted a little drag race around the football field."

"I thought the whole evening was a lot of fun, but I could hardly wait to get out of that suit and tie I had to wear to be an escort."—Joe Viers

"The half-time coronation ceremony added a touch of class to an already great evening."

"The only way I made it through coronation was by looking at the audience in the bleachers as a whole instead of as individuals."

Queen candidate Lori Bigler and her escort, Dallas Brinkman, ride slowly around the football field in anticipation of the crowning of the Homecoming Queen for 1974-75. Although the big moment is almost there, candidate Jayne Geesman doesn't appear nervous at all. Her escort doesn't look very happy—maybe it is because he isn't golfing!

As Linda Grumley and Joe Viers come around the goal post, we catch a quick glance of them. They both appear to be pretty calm. Maybe they know something we don't. Here comes our last candidate, Liz Reid and her escort, Mark O'Brien. Liz looks tired but happy.

Homecoming Furthers Student Involvement

"21" to "6" was the highlight of homecoming week. "The elementary students really got into the enthusiasm of the parade downtown."

"I thought homecoming was swell because of the spirit everyone had all week."—Dienna Ebling
"Floats would have made Homecoming more of a special event."—Joe Viers
"Homecoming is to football as Christmas is to church services. It's the biggest turnout of the year."

"The homecoming parade gives the school and the team a chance to show their spirit together."

"The dance at homecoming really topped off the victory."—Deb Barnhart

"The best part about homecoming was that the boys did so well in the game. Especially number 22."—Rhonda Rindels

"I don't care what the window judges say, the juniors homecoming window was still the best."—John Van Eschen

"It was the pepfest this year I think that got me so excited for the big homecoming weekend. The participation in the skits and the enthusiasm shown by the student body and the teachers made this year's homecoming twice as good as in the past."

"I was so excited when I found out I was chosen to be on the court this year. I was also scared. I never before had been honored in front of so many people. However, in spite of shaking knees that I attribute half to fright and half to the cold, I had a fantastic time."

"The band for homecoming was really something else. They covered all their mistakes by turning up the volume."

"Competing in the window contest really brings the class together once a year to achieve the honor of being best."—Randy Smith

"Oh buoy, Oh buoy—A VICTORY"—Donald Duck

"I didn't think much of homecoming until I became a part of it"

"The homecoming dance was not what I expected at all. I guess students at G.H.S. prefer to sit around and watch, rather than cutting loose on the dance floor."—Mr. O'Brien

A Glimpse Of Students At Their Best

"Some of my friends and I, our favorite place to go after games is the bowling alley. We like to keep the pinball machines hopping."

"I spend a lot of my spare time playing golf at the Country Club. It really gives me the feeling that I am at one with nature."

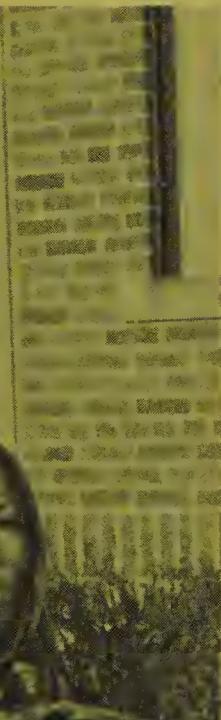

"Sometimes I just go down and sit by the river and imagine what it must be like to be carefree as a duck paddling down the Shell Rock. It really helps me forget my troubles."

Often times the student center is the site of much foul play with friends' lockers. Many times one gets so caught up in a card game one forgets the bell and has to run to class and hope you get there before the bell rings.

You can always count on the cheerleaders to add a bit a pep and enthusiasm to the games and rallies.

Work with friends often takes place outside of school. Sometimes one is caught in action by a camera, whether it be the Ramgreen photographer or the KWVL Community Quiz Camera.

Variety Show A Success

This year's variety show was a combination of high school and junior high choral talent. It included humorous skits and songs by small groups and by the entire chorus. Some of the highlights pictured here are the Junior High Chorus, the girl's trio, the Bubblegum skit, the Hangman skit, and the Dishpan Band.

Li'l Abner In Rehearsal

Cast members for Lil Abner included: C. Schafer, S. Hildrebrand, R. Rindels, B. Neetleton, L. Rutz, J. Meek, B. Brinkman, D. Duffield, K. Wurst, D. Pitcher, P. Moser, D. Uhlenhopp, C. Viers, B. Barnes, J. Anthony, B. Markle, P. McGee, M. Schroeder, D. Barnhart, J. Pitcher, S. McBurney, R. Helm, K. Muhlenbruck, U. Scheel, B. Wust, B. Frevert, J. Senne, J. Viers, K. Jewel, P. Nikolas, V. Mull.

Leading characters in GHS spring musical included Becky Wust—Daisy Mae, Brian Frevert—Lil Abner, Joanne Senne—Mammy Yokum, Joe Viers—Pappy Yokum, Kevin Jewel—Marryin Sam, Pat Nikolas—Senator Fogbound, and Vernon Mull—General Bullmoose.

Due to conflicts with numerous spring extra curricular activities, the directors and administration found public performance impossible.

Mini Arts Festival Provides Entertainment For All

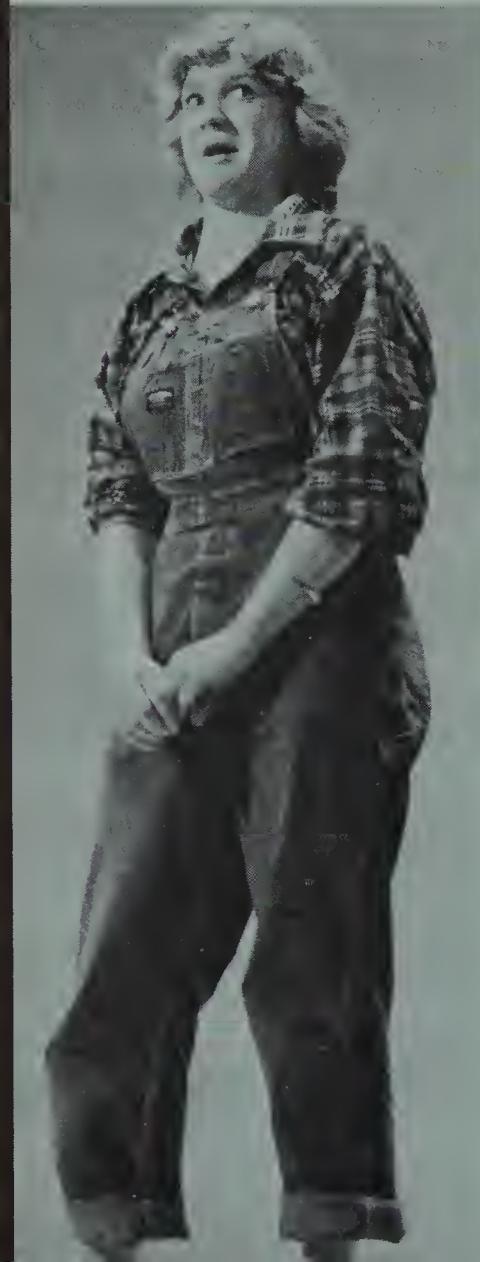

Everyone who attended the Mini Arts Festival was entertained by at least one aspect of the festival. Everyone enjoyed the She-nee-nee Band who "sang and played" popular songs from yesteryear.

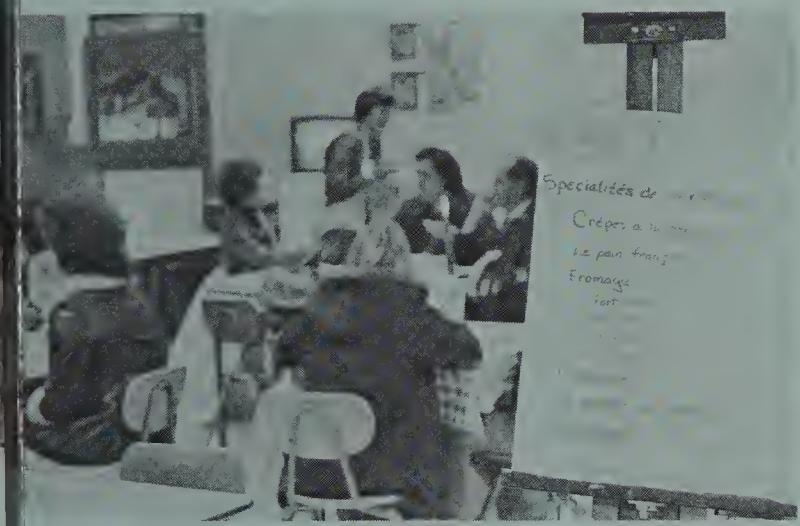

At down extreme right the Righteous Rambler who has related his heroic deeds monthly in the Odyssey made a surprise appearance much to the enjoyment of his many followers at GHS.

There were also several speech presentation both serious and humorous at the Festival. At down extreme left Becky Wust presents her next improvisational speech about two flavors of ice cream who are melting in a freezer. She received an outstanding performance award at the State Individual Speech Contest for this speech.

Right center, Joe Viers presents his after dinner speech centered around the theme of "I've Gotta Be Me". This speech left both young and old in tears of laughter.

At left center, Deb Barnhart presents her dramatic poetry selection "Little Word, Little White Bird" by Carl Sandberg. Deb received an outstanding performance award at State Contest.

The 1975 Mini Arts Festival opened as the Greene High School Vocal Music Department presented two numbers bringing back the flavor of Hee Haw and bibbed overalls and straw hats. They sang "Raised on Country Sunshine" and followed it with the girls' chorus singing "Harmony".

The Greene High School Concert Band played three numbers entitled "The Sentry Boy March," "Sonus Ventorum," and the 4th movement of "Divergence."

The feelings of embarrassment ran deep between two students as the She-Nee-Nee band dedicated a special song, "Tell Laura I Love Her", to Randy Smith.

The French Club was busy serving their customers French delicacies at the French Restaurant. The Community examined the art, shop, and Home Economics displays.

Following the speech activities, the physical education department presented the skills students had learned in various sports throughout the year. This part of the program included three superstar volleyball games; one male, one female, and one co-ed. Following the volleyball, the boys and girls were performing some basic stunts simultaneously at opposite ends of the gymnasium. The boys presented basic stunts on the trampoline, high bar, and spring board. The girls' physical education classes presented their skills in creative mat movement. These individual activities included tumbling, gymnastics, and the individual student's creative imagination. Several individuals demonstrated their agility, balance, flexibility, and strength on the balance beam.

The Mini Arts Festival demonstrated the importance of each department in the school and how they can help the student become a better rounded individual.

Spring Fever Invades G.H.S.

The anxiousness of students for school to be over came long before the usual symptoms of spring fever were in the air. Even though the warm weather, green grass, and flowers were late this spring, they seemed to have no real significance in delaying spring fever among the GHS student body and faculty. Countdown bulletin boards were found throughout the school. Students and teachers checked off each slow crawling day with eager anticipation of the end! Students grew antsy to break up the humdrum routine. Students invented their own means of enjoyment. On several occasions the student body and faculty found themselves evacuating the building with a fire alarm echoing in their ears. Others took out their frustrations by seeing how many friends they could pack into a Buick. Some simply took out their frustration by taking potshots of their favorite history teacher. Other gathered with friends at "Jai's" for a casual refreshment and a snack. While some were busy with friends others spent time by themselves enjoying their ten speed bike, or Suzuki. No spring would be complete without meeting the challenge of a friend's dare to "rip off" a stop sign. Numerous "underclassmen" looked back on their childhood days of slides, swings, and skinned knees, while upperclassmen were meeting the body-building challenge of lifting the nearest "bug" in sight.

Ulrike Brings German Heritage to GHS

Ulrike Scheel came to Greene, August 21, 1974. She is living with the Leo Landers family all year. Ulrike comes from Stade, Germany where she attended an all-girl school. She speaks English, French, German, and Latin. She has two sisters. Her mother is a housewife and her father is a teacher. She has kept very busy this year with the different activities, band, chorus, plays, student council, and Luther League. She enjoys our sports, especially basketball. The classes she took are American Literature, American History, Physical Education, Home Economics, Drama, and Algebra, and after she gets done studying she still has time to play cards in the Student Center. Some of the things that she found very different from her country were that everyone gets involved in school activities, the food (which she loves), and the weather, which she really likes.

The exchange experience between the two different countries has also kept us busy. She has told about Germany to various groups in the community, and she has been learning about our country as well, through American History and by traveling. During Christmas vacation our family went to Texas and this summer will be traveling in the western half of the U.S. and Canada.

Ulrike will be going home July 21, 1975. She plans to go into Medicine and GHS wishes her Luck.

Seniors Moods Vary As Graduation Draws Near

Senior Officers—Charles Schafer, President; Julie Johnson, Vice President; Kevin Jewell, Secretary; Rich Allison, Treasurer.

This picture reflects well the mood of the seniors as the year wore on. The effects of being a senior were obviously a little demanding.

Mixed emotions were felt throughout the year as each senior thought about graduation and leaving Greene High.

Class Motto: No goal is too high if we climb with care and confidence.

Class Colors: Mint green and forest green.

Class Flower: Yellow Rose.

The Class of "75" was definitely a talented class, to put it in the words of our illustrious history teacher. Whether they were greased back performing under the name of She-Nee-Nee, or getting greasy while working under the hood of a car, they always came through with flying colors.

Each senior plans to carry his talents with him after graduation, too:

"I plan to go to UNI so I can follow in the old family tradition."—Deb Barnhart.

"I have enrolled at Iowa State with plans of studying Architectural Engineering."—Rich Allison.

"I will be at Allen Memorial studying to be a nurse."—Lori Bigler.

"My future plans include attending UNI in hopes of working in speech therapy."—Carolyn Dralle.

"I am just going to hang loose for a year."—Jim Conry.

"I am taking up child care at Des Moines Area Comm. College."—Dienna Ebling.

"We're going to La James."—Brenda Cole and Denise Landers.

"My scholarship in track to UNI should help me get started in pre-law."—Brian Frevert.

Studies, Relaxation, and Goofing-Off Occupy Senior's Time

The senior class was a very scholarly group that concentrated heavily on their studies. Luckily they had dedicated and hard working teachers in all the various departments to help them through their last year at Greene High.

But when all studies were done and there was nothing better to do, you might have found them playing a game of leap-frog in the gym, or relaxing in the student center with a cool 7-UP.

"What I liked about school best this year was the fact that I only had to go one semester."—Mike Nikolas.

"I liked the variety of subjects you had offered this year."—Cindy Weinberg.

"Knowing that this was our last year was the only thing that kept me going."—Renee Steere.

"I was really happy that we had such a good girls basketball season."—Linda Grumley.

"The extra privileges of the student center and open campus were a lot of fun."—Pam Larson.

"I was really glad that I was able to graduate at the semester so I could start my political life early and save the world before it is too late!"—Joe Needham.

Juniors Involve Themselves In A Variety Of Activities

"I Think P.E. is one of my favorite classes because we have so many exciting adventures and do so many enjoyable things." - Lyna Debner

"I enjoy school because it gives me something to do. It is one of the most enriching experiences a person can have. It is also a very nice place to meet friends." - Diane Stanton

"3:15 is the best time of day." - Troy Marshall

"I like recess!" - Brent Towsley

"I like Algebra II best because it doesn't remind me that I'm in school. I hate school, but I like the food." - Jane Kanter

"I like Chemistry because we do experiments and don't work from the book all the time." - Randy Smith

"I like Home Ec. because there is no homework!" - Shelli Moser

"The school needs something to liven it up." - Jayne Meek

"I like basketball games the best." - Jean Ann Steere and Diane Ritter

The Junior class's window for the homecoming contest placed 4th in the contest. Their theme was "Put the Rebels in Their Place." It featured a grave digger (complete with green-and-white striped shirt and overalls) hard at work with visions of the gravestone in a little cloud above him. The most outstanding features of the window was the intricate details on the bib overalls and especially on the tennis shoes. John Van Eschen was responsible for those two works of art.

Sixth Graders Study Craft Skills

Miss Kipping was well accepted by her sixth grade class when she arrived at Greene to substitute for Mr. Cannon, who was hospitalized with a severe kidney condition. Her creative imagination immediately caught the enthusiasm of the students. Her wide travels abroad as well as throughout the United States helped to make geography and history class more interesting to her students. Students became involved in the Middle Age craft guild skills of show making, weaving, and candle making held in conjunction with their Trade Fair Days.

The sixth graders work hard in rehearsals and on their own time on getting a head start in band before coming to the junior high. The spirit runs high as they hope to one day carry the traditional banner of excellence that marks the G.H.S. band program.

This year was marked by a lot of team teaching as the instructors joined hands in presenting units of interest and importance to the students. One of the highly successful units studied by the sixth graders was a study of how Christmas is celebrated in various countries around the world. Such inter-departmental efforts helped to broaden the exposure of the students to other cultures and customs.

The highlight for the fifth graders this year was a vast unit in pioneer life in which every department got into the swing of the westward movement. In social studies, students studied pioneer history, in literature they read pioneer literature, and in music, they sang pioneer folk tales. Everyone worked together in producing an eight-act dramatization including pioneer dances learned in P.E., pioneer music with original lyrics written by the students. Mr. Steck's room was converted into a Pioneer Museum while Mrs. Kehoe's class was converted into the traditional pioneer one-room country school.

While class is in progress, the fifth graders try their best to keep busy and keep their minds on their work. However, at times hunger for dinner, fantasies of play-ground fun, or the intrusion of a yearbook photographer breaks their concentration.

Many fifth graders got off to an early start playing their instruments for band.

The first Graders began the year in eager anticipation. This year they would learn to READ! As the year progressed they did, as if by magic. First short two or three word sentences. Then whole stories and finally short books.

They learned about how to tell time, to use money, and to measure together with $2+2=4$ and $5-3=2$.

First Graders talked and wrote about themselves, their families, their neighborhoods, and their world. They learned how to live and work happily together.

As each holiday approached, they found out why we celebrate these days. Crowns and cake marked the celebration of each student's important day.

There were frequent trips to the kitchen to ask for carrots and lettuce treats for the class's pet Guinea Pig.

The second graders this year concentrated on the traditional 3 R's—Reading, 'Riting, and 'Rithmetic. Their teachers worked hard on drilling into them the importance of establishing a sound foundation for each of these skills. As you can notice from the excited faces of these young students, they were all attentive and eager to learn. The second graders look forward to the excitement and challenge of each day, whether it be solving a math problem with the "new math" or attempting to eat hot lunch without their front teeth.

Rams Get Off To Slow Start

"Mr. Helmers was a terrific coach. Each time we lost, he took a lot from towns people and such, but he never let it get the best of him. He really held the team together." - Kevin Jewell.

"The best thing about playing football is the satisfaction that comes with winning." - Troy Marshall.

"Football was both a challenge and a lot of fun for the guys playing the game. However, our record did not realistically symbolize how well the season really went." Barry Delp.

"Winning our first game against Rockwell really helped to build the morale of our team. Those bad breaks early in the season were beginning to show wear on the team." "The most important part of preparation for a game takes place in the locker room. I sit and think about the upcoming game and really try to fire myself up." - The Rams.

High stepping technique to pick up a few needed yards is used by junior Paul Anderson.

Ramblers Advance To District Finals

The 74-75 Boys' Basketball season was a highly successful one in many respects. Before the season began, the team set a number of goals for itself, accomplishing most of them. Perhaps the most significant of these was the winning of the Sectional Tournament held at Greene, by beating an old rival Allison-Bristow. The boys went on to the District Finals only to lose to Tripoli in a close game.

Rich Allison, Steve Stark, and Jim Van Eschen were elected tri-captains and Rich Allison and Steve Stark were honored with all-conference selections.

Holway had a 7-2-1 record and placed second at Calmar and conference and third at Greene. Jim Nauman was the other senior on the squad and had a good season. Juniors were Barry Delp, Tom Leavens, Mark Adams, and Troy Marshall. Delp finished 5-1-2 and placed first at Greene and second at Tripoli. Leavens finished 5-4 and third at Greene. Sophomores were Monte Heitland, Andy Nelson, Stewart Pyatt, and Ron Smith. Denny Delp was the only freshman. They all wrestled hard for varsity spots and did a fine job.

Trackers' Win State Medley and 880

The Rams led by seniors Brian Frevert, Rich Allison, Byron Davis, Chuck Schafer, Steve Stark and Don Schroeder led the Rams to one of, if not the best, track seasons in the history of Greene High. The season started with a second place finish at Rockford, then reeled off 3 straight championships; Ventura, Comet, and Bronco. The Rams place 4th at Districts behind Garner, Belmond and Ackley-Gcneva. The Rams next tied St. Ansgar for the Corn Bowl Conference Title, first time since 1961. Finally the Rams went to state and hit their peak. In 3 races they set three school records and two state. Brian Frevert was super running a 1:55.5 min. in the open 880 yard run and anchoring the mile medley relay with a 1:53 min. Brian also anchored our 880 yard relay team to a 7th finish and a new school record 1:33.9 min. Rich Allison ran a leg in the 880 relay and turned in a very strong 50.7 440 in the medley relay. Byron Davis and John Van Eschen ran fine 220 legs in the mile medley. John Downing and John Van Eschen ran legs in the 880.

Julie Harris established new marks in the 440-880-Mile-and Long Jump. The Mile Relay mark was lowered by over 6 seconds. Barb Markle, Lisa Behrends, and Janet Schaffer were outstanding seniors with Barb elected team captain. Sherri Muhlenbruck, Jane Kanter were outstanding juniors. Laura Harris and Peggy Steere were fine sophomores. Heide Groff, Vonnie Heitland, and Diana Beek led a good freshman contingent.

Bill Astor led the boys and was voted Most Valuable Golfer and Team Captain. Bill was medalist in the Conference and advanced to Districts as a medalist.

Joanne Senne led the girls and was voted both Most Valuable and Team Captain.

Next year should promise to be a good year for both the boys and girls—the girls will return 5 letterwinners and boys will return with 3.

Chris Rutz was president of student council first semester and Barry Delp was president the rest of the year. Pam Larson was secretary. Our student council members are the people you turn to when you want something changed or have an idea you think would benefit the entire school. The council members will then take your idea to the principal for consideration.

The student council had many activities this year. They held meetings as often as was necessary to accomplish what they were doing, sometimes as often as once a day. At some of their meetings they all put their heads together to come up with some subjects for great assemblies for the 1975-76 school year.

Student council members planned a great majority of the Homecoming activities. The parade and window painting contest were two of these.

The council also planned the Christmas decorations and were in charge of getting a tree and having it set up and decorated.

One of the last activities was the organization of mini-courses. The members had to make up the list of courses and notify people of them.

Ramgreen Grows Close Through Work and Play

The yearbook staff got off to a fresh start this year with a new name and a new advisor. This year the Ramgreen staff wanted to make this annual the best ever. The year began with a highly successful yearbook sales campaign. Members plastered the walls of the school with posters encouraging the purchase of the annual. Yearbook sales broke all preceding sales records by selling just short of 300 copies. After we had sold the annual, we got down to task of production. We decided to use special effect screens for all division pages, designed our own cover by use of special effects photography, and purchased a different colored paper stock for each different section of the annual. After much consideration we decided to develop the idea of the individual and his contributions to GHS, thus the theme of individuality has been developed and carried throughout this year's annual. To make the annual closer to students and more interesting, items of personal comment are scattered throughout the annual. To help the staff in organization and planning of your annual, the editors, photographer, and advisor attended a workshop at Clarksburg. We have spent many hours on this annual, so we hope you like it.

Seniors Experience Chicago's Fast Pace

The Class of '75 was the last class at G.H.S. that will take a senior trip sponsored as a school activity. After four years of class dues, fund raising projects, hard work, and good fellowship, the seniors earned enough money to take a three day trip to Chicago. It all began with forty two anxious students boarding two chartered buses at 12 midnight May 11. After an eight hour bus ride filled with jokes, pranks, pillow fights, etc. . .no one felt too rested for the hectic sightseeing schedule planned for them. Students and chaperones were impressed by the size of the 747 jets they saw at O'Hare Airport. The Arts and Industries Building was the second stop. Everyone gave their legs a rest as they relaxed and put their feet up on a boat ride on Lake Michigan. Sunday evening everyone had some spare time to take in a movie, explore the world of skyscrapers, relax under a sculpture in the park across from the hotel, or simply grab a bite to eat. Monday morning the group visited the John Hancock Building, an aquarium, and then headed to see the Brookfield Zoo. The group returned to Greene at 12:30 A.M. Tuesday May 13. To many the trip to Chicago gave them exposure to a fast paced world and a way of life they had not experienced before. The trip provided fun with friends who in a few short days would only be memories.
